

Teacher Mentor

I imagine there are few more rewarding professions than teaching -- but for new teachers making their way through the first few years, it can be a bit daunting at times. Often some practical, no-nonsense ideas and encouragement from an experienced mentor can help the new teacher step forward in confidence, avoiding some of the pitfalls that await in the classroom.

Some areas of focus include:

- crafting authentic assignments
- homework's relevance
- finding out who your students are
- creating lessons with purpose
- navigating teacher relations
- keeping an eye on the big picture

I'm here to provide guidance and support. If you're interested to know more, please contact me and we'll figure out how I can best help you meet your goals.

I consult personally within a 15 -mile radius of Pasadena, Ca (or sometimes online or by phone).
